

-ing Participle
Issues :-/

Realizing there was a football coming straight at my face at 60 miles per hour, I now had a black eye.

The kid, sobbing in his room, was sad.

The door, breaking into pieces, is not opening.

Accepting to finally do some chores, my brother took out the trash.

The woman, running a race,
was tired.

Addy rushed to her, dripping
and cold, water bottle.

The man, talking down to me,
made me feel like a child.

The children ran across the city, sprinting from the police.

The guy, stalking and watching me, was freaking
me out.

The rocket, cooling and thrusting its engines, reached outer space.

Singing slowly, Phoebe sang
her favorite song.

The dog, barking at the squirrel, made the squirrel run away.

Smacking each other furiously,
the fight raged on.

The hockey team won in overtime, after pounding the goalie with multiple shots.

Winning by 6, the football team scored.

The baseball player,
gripping the baseball bat,
swung at a high pitch.

Lying, that is a thing
people do a lot.

Leaving the room, she stood up.

Solving it on the paper, he wrote down the question.

The girls left the store
disappointed, hoping to find candy.

Because we watched a movie, Language Arts class
was fun.

Badminton, a simple swing
of a racket, was boring.

Flying too high while oxygen is running low, the bird fell.

The boy, watching the cars
go by, walked to school.

Standing at the mound, the pitcher wound up to throw his last pitch of the game.